The CORE

The efforts of the Merchants Association to provide better lighting on Macdonald avenue is to be commended, and it is to be hoped they will succeed in their endeavor. Compared to other cities of like population, it is stated that the main avenue of Richmond is one of the poorest illuminated in the state. The present number of electrolights was sufficient, when installed, and was a wonderful improvement over previous lighting, but the city has outgrown the present system, and it should be added to.

Every property owner and every merchant along the avenue should sign the petitions for better lighting, when they are presented to them. Unity of action will accomplish any purpose.

After 400 years of work the wild glades of Florida have been conquered. The Tamiami Trail, connecting Tampa and Miami and forming the last link in a modern highway system, girdling Florida is completed. It is a free road.

The work just completed has cost a vast sum of money, but it will all be returned, three fold, to the people of Florida, as it will mean the development of the state. Development means more population and more population means increased taxable property.

The increasing prevalence in California of the commercialized rodeo, should be discouraged in every possible way. The commercialized rodeo, as conducted today involves cruelty of the grossest nature. It is the aim of the decent people of the state to put an end to this kind of brutality. Initiative petitions will be circulated, which will place a measure on the ballot at the coming which will do away with it. In the name of fair play to animals, in the name of public decency, in the name of a better

POKER PLAYING ADMIRALS
SIGNED OIL LEASE, CHARGE

WASHINGTON, April 18.—A narrative of how a group of United States Navy Admirals joined with Harry F. Sinclair in a poker dinner at the Willard hotel a few hours after immensely valuable naval oil contracts had been granted to Sinclair companies, enlivened the Teapot Dome conspiracy trial today.

The alleged poker playing admirals, as identified by Admiral J. K. Robinson, star defense witness, included Admiral Luther E. Gregory, chief of naval civil engineers; Admiral Julian Latimer, navy judge advocate general at the time, and Robinson.

The government scored a number of important victories in its conduct of the trial today as defense witnesses followed each other in quick succession. Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts dealt the defense its most serious blow of the trial shortly before recess when Justice Jennings Bailey agreed with the government that Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy at the time of the Teapot lease, could not give the testimony which Sinclair lawyers sought. Mr. Denby left the stand after answering a few peremptory questions.

IS SUCCESS

The theatre party held by the Richmond council of P. T. A. Teacher associations in the California theatre Monday and Tuesday nights for the scholarship fund was a huge success, according to Mrs. George Ellis, chairman, who last night extended the thanks of the council to the public for the support given to the venture.

Returns from the ticket sales have not been completed but indications by the attendance during both days show a substantial fund raised. Association members who have not made returns are urged to do so to their association president and others having tickets to return them to Mrs. W. H. Scott.

As a result of the theatre party, university scholarship will be awarded to local graduates. The success of the scholarship program of the association is shown by the fact that the first pupil to receive an award will graduate with honors from the University of California in May.

Hearing Is Restored In Plane 'Fall'

A 14,000 foot "drop" in an airplane has restored the hearing of H. H. Krundick, 560 Forty-third street, Richmond, employee of the Standard Oil company. Dispatches from Visalia, where Krundick flew over Mt. Whitney, contained the news that his hearing was perfect when he climbed out of the plane.

At a distance of 8,000 feet up he told the pilot that his hearing had cleared considerably. At 15,000 feet they hit a rarified atmosphere that almost froze Krundick and Pilot Callahan. They took a sudden "drop" to within 1000 feet of the earth.

"I can hear again," declared Krundick as he clambered out of the plane.

Krundick became suddenly deaf about three years ago and determined to experiment with the report that sudden "drops" from high altitudes are definite ways of restoring hearing, and now he plans to continue the "treatments" until he is permanently cured.

Alleged Still Owner Is Bound
Over By Court

A hearing which was designed to prove to the satisfaction of Judge Alstrom that Gus Cizmich was guilty of possessing a still, yesterday proved also, with the aid of Manuel Souza, arrested with Cizmich, that he was guilty of operating the still, with the result Judge Alstrom bound him over for hearing in the superior court. Souza's evidence proved damaging to his alleged partner's case.

The still confiscated in the raid was introduced yesterday as evidence. Souza testified that he moved to 643 Fifteenth street last December when Cizmich offered to pay his rent for the privilege of installing a still.

Lee Windrem represented the defendant, while Deputy District Attorney Jacobs prosecuted.

The biggest contract, $12,859, was won by the Pacific School Supply House and covers general school supplies. A. G. Spaulding & Bros., with an offer of $709, won the award for furnishing athletic supplies, and Hockwald's won the contract for janitor supplies with a bid of $1138.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

Consolidated Distributors, Inc., which operates a chain of 345 cents to $1 stores in the east and south, have decided to use newspapers exclusively to market their wares, according to a statement recently issued by its president, Jessie Froelich. This, it is said is the first time that a chain store system selling articles for as little as five cents has attempted to reach consumers through local newspapers.

The decision of the Consolidated Distributors to advertise removes the much-advanced alibi of the backward merchant that "my small business doesn't justify an expenditure for advertising." If this eastern firm, which necessarily must sell its goods on a small margin of profit can pay advertising bills and still pay dividends it is certain that the small local merchant whose margin is much greater also will find newspaper exploitation of his goods is profitable. The eastern chain store realizes that it will be far ahead at the end of the year by wider distribution. If it only makes a half cent on an article it has profited when twice as many articles are sold due to paid publicity—Exchange.

VIGOROUS HEALTH

LIGHT I believe it is impossible to keep strictly clean without soap, especially in the modern cities. Few know anything of its wonder and its necessity to life. The human organism is so adaptable and enduring that it can manage to exist with a minimum of light and because many do so, the bad effects are not noticed. It is only the unusual that is noticed. If one were confined for a long time in a dark room it could soon be discovered that all the functions of the body were deteriorating. Death would surely be hastened even if proper food were supplied, together with heat and an otherwise normal environment. But because few if any are thus confined the value of light is greatly underestimated except by those who have made a study of it. Fortunately, light is coming into its own. The value of sunlight is now being broadcast to the world. Without sunlight the food will not be properly metabolized and resistance to disease is greatly reduced. As sunlight is not always available, various kinds of electric lamps have been devised to take its place. None so far have equalled the natural sunlight, but the carbon arc lamp comes near it. Other lamps have been devised to radiate certain portions of the sun's spectrum, and by means of colored slides all the colors of the spectrum may be obtained. The use of light in the treatment of disease has a wide field and it is being developed more all the time. The important thing for the ordinary person, however, is to get as much light as possible, whether indoors or out. The entire body needs it and not merely the eyes, face and hands. I have frequent headaches and dizzy, light headed spells. The cords back of my ears seem sore and heavy. Please advise. The symptoms you mention might be associated with a variety of disorders and a personal examination would be necessary for exact diagnosis. However, it is quite certain that you have a considerable degree of toxemia, and in all probability the orange diet for up to five days with daily enema, followed by a raw fruit and vegetable diet, would apply. Fresh air will probably be especially important.

Is there an advantage in performing exercise to music? I have no radio, but I have a chart of exercises that I could follow. BERNICE. It is helpful to take exercise to music, because it assists in maintaining interest and teaches one rhythm in exercise. These two factors postpone fatigue. However, the music is not indispensable, and you should cure good results if you take your exercise regularly and live rightly in other respects.

SOAP Most of us would not care to eat soap like the Eskimos, but we can at least use it externally. Many fair young ladies are of the opinion that their skins are too delicate for soap, and as a result they gradually lose their fairness and take on a dingy hue.

Dear Patricia Lee—

Can you help me out? I am so discouraged that I surely need the advice of a friend. I am engaged to a wonderful chap. He is kind and considerate in every respect. No faults—just a plain good-natured fellow. For me he will make an ideal husband. But there is so much trouble at home over him. Somehow my mother does not like him, although he treats her as he would his own mother. We had planned to marry next January, and save for a home in the coming months. Three nights a week I stay home and make things for my hope chest. He is practically alone, and we are all the friends he has. I don't see any harm in his coming over these nights, while I am busy and playing cards with my father. He leaves at 10 p. m. Three nights a week we go out. Mother says I'll never be happy with a dance hall sheik, but he isn't that. She has insulted him, and I can't stand it. So we have decided to be married in June. Would you please advise me?—GWEN.

Dear Gwen: I gather from your letter that you are the only child. You must realize how hard it is for your mother to lose you. She probably thinks that she is putting obstacles in your way because she dislikes the man you are going to marry. But really it is because she loves you, and feels that she has been supplanted in your affections. You must be extra kind and considerate to her; show her that you still love her; that your husband-to-be can never take her place. I don't believe in long engagements myself, and if you can manage at all, I think you were wise to change your plans and get married in June. Young people are not expected to start off with a bang, you know.

Q. Must a man remove his hat upon entering an office?

A. Yes, he removes his hat whether he addresses a man or woman. He does not remove his hat, however, when shopping or addressing a clerk in a store.

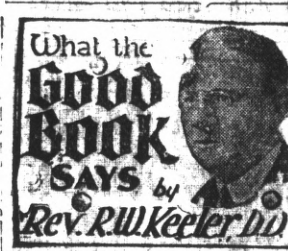

Q. Is it necessary for a man to keep his hat off his head when talking to a woman in a public place?

A. When a man and woman stop for a few minutes' chat on the street or in public he removes his hat on greeting his friend and on leaving her. It is courteous for a young man to wait about replacing his hat until the woman suggests that he do so—and this is well bred woman always will do.

Q. At a home wedding, where the bride wears an afternoon dress should she wear a hat? What should her maid of honor wear?

A. She may use her own preference as to whether she wears a hat. The maid of honor should also wear an afternoon frock.

POWDER MY BACK
NOVEL BY ARLINE DE HAAS
Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"POWDER MY BACK," starring Irene Rich, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Arline Dayton, starring in "Powder My Back," has photographs made of titled men powdering her back, to be used as publicity. One of these pictures appears in her home town newspaper in Brooklyn, focus. Maudie, her married sister, sees it. Horribly shocked, she intends Adele to visit her, thinking to "reform" her. During her visit, Harry Stark, her niece's beau, and George Robertson, her childhood sweetheart, both fall in love with her. But Adele, disgusted when she discovers that her sister cheats at cards, and that her brother-in-law is an embezzler, returns to New York and the stage. Harry follows and then George arrives.

CHAPTER XIV—Continued

"Thanks," George took a cigarette and lit Adele's and his own. "You're looking splendid. I haven't had a chance to see the new edition of your show yet, but I hear it's great—even better than the first one."

"It's going beautifully," Adele assured him proudly. "We've been playing to capacity ever since we opened."

"That's fine. I'll be sure to see it."

"But what brought you to New York—anything special?" Adele asked, mildly curious.

George settled back into his chair and Adele curled herself up on the lounge. "Adele," he began

"I'm sorry, Adele," he got up and went over to the lounge and sat down beside the actress, taking her hand and patting it gently. After a while he spoke. "I know that you look upon me as an old man," he began, "but if that's the case, then Harry is just a baby. He can't keep pace with you—you don't realize that. Besides, his work shows it. He's fascinated, and he's really, down deep inside, leaning on you. You're strong—strong enough for someone to draw from, and that's what Harry is doing."

Adele sat resting her elbow on her knees, her chin in hand. She was scarcely listening to George. But a few of his words had reached their mark. She did think of George as an old man, but she had never before thought of him as a baby. He had seemed more her own age than anything else—her age, that is, as she felt it. He wasn't old and preachy and sensible-like George. But he was young, and careless and free—as she was.

"I don't know anything about your friendship with Harry," George continued. "But, Adele, you must realize that Harry has no money. He has nothing to live on. All he had in Brooklyn was his salary from the bank, and that was scarcely enough for him to save very much. He can't afford to take you around and spend any money. He hasn't any, at all."

Adele realized now the truth of these remarks. But as she looked up at Harry's picture on her piano, her eyes softened. He was such a dear.

"George," she interrupted suddenly, and somewhat coldly, "I don't see how this is any affair of yours—except his shortage at the bank. And I'll refund that."

"No, Adele, that isn't what I came here for. That isn't your affair—it's mine," George shook his head. "I've had a talk with Harry. He told me that he couldn't leave back—but he won't. He won't leave you. He's mad about you, Adele. But you're going to ruin his life. He doesn't belong to you and your world. He belongs back in Brooklyn, working in a bank, and he'll finally become a valuable man there."

"I don't believe it," Adele flashed back, angry. "How can you say such things?" But she couldn't go on. She knew, if she acknowledged the truth to herself, that she was in love with Harry, but that it would never last. She would grow away from him. It was true that he did belong back in Brooklyn—but now he belonged to her, as long as she wanted him. And yet—

"Perhaps you don't know it," George broke in on her thoughts, "but if you hold Harry until you're through with him, you'll ruin Mildred's life, too." He had saved his trump card for the last play.

"She doesn't know anything about all this, I mean—but his disappearance has broken her heart," "O, George!" It was a pitiful little cry that came from her heart. She might have been able to face anything else—have stood out against George and his accusations. But that she should cause such unhappiness to that lovely child hurt her more than anything else.

George had known that his last plea would turn the tables, and he saw that Adele had indeed been seriously affected by his story. For she sat now, her head bowed in her hands, staring at him, arms outstretched, as if she were pleading for him. But he realized that this might spoil the entire effect that he had created.

"But he's not an artist," George pursued his original theme. "He writes trash—and you know it!" He picked up the play he had been reading. "Adele, I know little or nothing about the theatre, but even I, without half reading the thing, know that such utter rot would never stand a chance. Surely, you don't have to be told that." He tossed the play aside. It fell to the floor, open faced.

Adele stared at George as though she had received a sudden shock. She couldn't answer him—there was no answer. She knew that what he had said was perfectly true. There was no other side to the question. The whole picture of her friendship with Harry rose before her. It had been such a beautiful thing—just having youth and companionship and enthusiasm and adoration. It had seemed like a romantic dream, dreamed long ago, come to life. Rides through Central Park on moonlight nights, dancing and playing hard, and working hard, and someone to talk to—someone who was sympathetic and understanding and nice. She sighed.

George realized that Adele was hurt—how deeply he didn't quite know, but he could not for a minute think that she had allowed herself to become a fool over such a chap as Harry. But all the same he felt sorry that he had been the one to bring her such news, even though he had thought that it was best that she knew the truth.

GARBO SCORES IN FILM AT CALIFORNIA

Surrounded by the most important cast she has had since coming to America, Greta Garbo rises to new film heights in "The Divine Woman," her latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring production, which opened yesterday at the California Theatre.

In addition to her great supporting cast Miss Garbo has the best picture vehicle which has been given to her during her two years in America. Yet, despite these surroundings, she stands out as a real star in the magnificent production.

"The Divine Woman" is a screen adaptation of Gladys Unger's "Starlight," which many of you may remember as a Doris Keane starring vehicle on the stage. It is safe to say that in its translation to the screen "The Divine Woman" has been greatly improved upon as a starring vehicle. The cause of the wide latitude which the screen allows over the cramped range offered by the stage.

Miss Garbo carries her role magnificently from the opening sequence as a peasant girl and a helper in a laundry to the heights which she achieves as the darling of Paris theatrical world, and back again to her tawdry surroundings in the Montmartre. Lars Hanson gives a remarkable performance as a French laundress, while Dorothy Cumming who plays the part of the Marquis, is a perfect French aristocrat. Victor Seastrom has directed this production in his usual masterful manner.

Other features include "Leave 'Em Laughing," a roaring comedy, featuring Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy; and current news events.

Aged Convicts Enjoying Life

SAN QUENTIN, April 18.—Life behind prison walls is not so irksome as might be thought for some 25 old men here. The latest song hits, dance music, jazz, baseball games and broadcast of boxing matches are received direct into the "old men's ward."

They also enjoy themselves with chess, checkers, dominoes and tid-bit winks. Or, when these pall on the prisoners, they may spend their time reading.

Out of the 102 prisoners over the age of 60 years, 25 who are unable to work are in special quarters above the office of Captain of the Yard, J. H. Carpenter.

Fitted with rocking chairs and other little conveniences, the place is cozy and warm and rather inviting, compared to the stone walls and iron bars of the cell houses.

Although these 25 men eat the same Hungarian goulash and beans as the other inmates, they do not have to crowd into the big dining room. All three meals are brought to the old men in their ward, and they have plenty of time. In fact time is the thing that these 25 men have the most of.

PLAY PROVES ACTRESS LOVE NOT ALL SHAM

"Stage Kisses," the Columbia Pictures production which opened at the Richmond Theatre yesterday, is an attempt to prove that all of the affection of an actress is not sham. The story moves along smoothly and in a perfectly natural manner with plenty of stirring action and breathless moments of suspense. Blended with this is a constant shifting background of social life ranging from the stage, cabaret and night club to the staid drawing-rooms of the upper social strata and the more relaxed atmosphere of an apartment block.

The plot deals with a youth in love with the premier danseuse of the "Folliesville." Against his parents' wishes he marries the girl, only to find his generous allowance cut off. The young couple try to struggle on against the almost overwhelming odds of very straightened financial circumstances. The relatives of the youth seize upon this necessity to attempt to poison his mind with suspicion of his wife. Simultaneously the former dancing partner of the girl uses his attentions as a wedge to force his way into the young wife's life. Out of this complication grows tense dramatic moments in which the audience gasps for breath and the plot itself into highest pitch, fear that the tide will turn against the heroine.

Helene Chadwick, as the dancer, wins the sympathy of every one. She shows the proper spirit of fight without overdoing the action or resorting too strongly to melodramatics. Especially well done are the horse-riding sequences and the frame-up at the Clark house.

Kenneth Harlan is just the right type for the young aristocrat, who revolts against parental dictation and sets out for himself. He displays a natural and proper faith in his wife and builds up a pleasing characterization. John Patrick, Phillips Smalley, Ethel Wales and Frances Raymond complete the strong and capable cast which makes "Stage Kisses," an interesting entertainment.

Other features on the same program include "Hot Lightning," a comedy scream; "Grey Days," a screen novelty and current news events.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—Mobilization of the membership of the California world war veterans through the various posts of the American Legion in a drive to "get-out-the-vote" on primary election day, May 1, has been ordered by State Commander Phil Dodson of the Legion.

"The American Legion believes that it is incumbent upon every citizen to vote on May 1 and all war veterans are asked to show the way to their fellow citizens by going to the polls and thus encouraging others to do likewise," Dodson says.

EASTBAY CO. WILL FILE LAST SUIT

The third and last condemnation suit necessary to give the East Bay Municipal Utility District possession of all the land in the Lancha Plana reservoir except a small area at the upper end not needed immediately is scheduled to begin May 14, it was announced at the district headquarters in Oakland yesterday.

The trial will be held in Jackson. The land consists of 320 acres owned by Edwin Morrow and lies entirely within boundaries of Alameda county, a short distance north of the dam which is now under construction.

Morrow is to be represented in the case by the same legal staff which represented Stephen E. Kieffer and associates in the first and second trials, both of which resulted in verdicts favorable to the district. The first case involved 7,265 acres and resulted in a verdict by the jury that the land should be given to the Utility District for $337,450.60, instead of the $17,000,000 demanded. The second suit, concluded last week, involved 160 acres and the price fixed by the jury was $15,000 instead of nearly $15,000,000 demanded.

Reports from the Utility district are that right-of-way work on the pipe line and tunnels all the way from Oakland to the Lancha Plana Dam is completed. The right-of-way program involved the purchase of a strip of land one hundred feet wide and ninety-three miles long, capable of carrying the first unit pipe line which has now been completed, and two other pipes of equal size to be installed at some future time. The cost of the pipe line right-of-way was $870,962.24. The whole strip was purchased with but two contested condemnation suits, all the other parcels being acquired through amicable settlements.

A large condemnation suit was

The total cost of purchases so far made by the district for the pipe line right-of-way, Lafayette reservoir, and the two parcels in the Lancha Plana reservoir is given as $1,348,150.84.

The land upon which the Lancha Plana dam stands was government property and permission to erect the structure was obtained from the Federal Power commission.

PROPOSED BUS SERVICE WINS FAVOR HERE

A survey being conducted in Richmond to determine the feasibility of installing bus service between San Pablo and McBryde avenues, the business district and S. P. ferries, indicates that establishment of such a service would have sufficient patronage, according to A. L. Paulsen, city councilman.

Drought Hits South Africa

CAPETOWN, April 18.—The vast provinces of South Africa have been parched, for the last four months, by one of the worst droughts in the colony's history. No living man, it is said, can remember an occasion when the country has lain so long in the grip of this dreaded menace.

In a climate where copious rains fall with a regularity which is depressing, it is difficult to grasp the full meaning of the word drought.

Each long day beneath a blazing sun, hardly a cloud in the sky, the lands an arid waste, and the stock dying because there is hardly a green blade of grass in the parched veld. Only in the shade of a great boulder a few delicate "ice" plants have found just enough moisture to sustain them.

SEALS TAKE SECOND GAME FROM ACORNS

The pitching of Elmer Jacobs and the hitting of "Sloppy" Thurston, proved too much for Del Howard's Acorns yesterday, with the result the league champions suffered their second straight defeat at the hands of Nick Williams' Seals by a score of 1 to 0. The transbay club was held to five hits by Cooper, while the Oaks nicked Jacobs for seven.

The winning tally came in the seventh frame when Thurston's drive against the centerfield fence sent big Smead Jolley galloping home after Jolley had drew a free pass.

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

Dempsey Muses on Baseball Form

Jack Dempsey, who has arrived in New York, once passed a cogent remark which illustrates a radical difference between baseball and Dempsey's own racket, prize fighting.

It was after the Yankees had had a particularly bad season in their Southern training camp. They had been beaten by every team in the South, including the Princess Martha bellhops.

Yet Dempsey, surveying the papers on the eve of the opening games, found that the baseball writers were almost unanimous in picking the Yankees to win the American League pennant.

"The baseball writers differ from the fight writers," remarked William Harrison. "If a fighter looks bad in training, if he lost a series of exhibition fights, the fight writers would pick his first opponent to win. A fighter's training sheds some light on his real form; a baseball team's training is no index to its class or lack of class."

Dempsey said a mouthful, if you will pardon the vulgar lapse. The Yankees, beaten in the South, are picked to win the American League pennant, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, beaten five games in a row by the Chicago Cubs on the coast, are generally picked to win the National League gonfalon.

Stranger still, it is entirely probable that the oft beaten Yankees and the much-shellacked Pirates will do exactly that.

Mike Casale's bagbails run true to form displayed in their morning workouts at Bowie and Belmont and Jamaica, and fighters run true to form displayed in the gymnasium. However, baseball teams can't be judged on their training preps.

Small wonder that Jack Dempsey asks the why and wherefore of this contradictory sport.

Veterans Start Season Overweight

This paradoxical situation, confusing on the surface, is actually not so involved and not so contradictory if you examine the facts in the case.

Baseball teams train for a schedule of 152 games. They are not training for a ten round fight or a two long sprint.

Early speed does not necessarily win a baseball pennant, and the team that is traveling at top speed in April and May has no guarantee that it will not be halt and lame as the league entries reach the home stretch in September.

So your Yankees and your Pirates, who know their own capacity from experience, train slowly. The players are fighting for physical condition rather than their positions.

Players like Babe Ruth, Frank Frisch, Rogers Hornsby and Pie Traynor devote the training session to reaching a certain weight, a certain poundage. They wish to start the season with perhaps six or seven pounds excess weight on their frames, knowing full well that this surplus will protect them from staleness in the later stages of a grueling pennant fight.

Not so with rookies. These are players under the compulsion of making good in a hurry, or going back to the bush leagues whence they came.

This explains why fellows like Del Bissonette of Brooklyn, Ricco da of Brooklyn, Tyson of Brooklyn and O'Doul and Cohen of the Glants have featured on the Southern trips. They had to deliver fast and they did.

Southern Fields Tough on Underpinning

Poorly fashioned Southern diamonds that carry the threat of Charlie-horses and pulled tendons do not deter the rookies from headlong slides and furious dashes.

The veterans, however, want no part of poor playing fields. They reserve their speed for the surer footing of the big league diamonds.

Rookie pitchers, intent on making good in a hurry, are unimpaired fast balls and hooks a week after they reach camp. Veteran pitchers, already established, are satisfied to let a fast ball develop its own momentum. They take no chances on chilly weather but instead exercise their whips as systematically and as thoroughly as an opera singer explores the range of his voice.

These things explain why spring training trips are no index as Dempsey observed, to class or the lack of it in a baseball team. These things also explain why baseball writers overlook Southern losses and pick teams like the Yankees and Pirates to win their pennants.

Veteran teams, like some veteran fighters, are poor gymnasium performers, but they reach top form when the money is put on the line and the bell rings for action.

Cubs and Glants Are Scrappest

However, there is one thing to remember in surveying the work of a team like our Kenneth D. Smith's New York Glants.

Conceding that spring victories are not of major importance, the hustle and bustle of a fighting team is not to be disregarded in any league or in any locale.

A team that will scrap for its base hits in the Southland will scrap for its base hits in the league season. A team that has enough spirit to rally in the ninth inning of a Southern game will show the same courage in actual league play.

More important than the Glant wins over Southern contemporaries is the quality of their fighting spirit.

The significant feature of the Chicago Cubs' training is the marvelous esprit de corps of Joe McCarthy's cohorts.

These teams may bow to clubs with greater mechanical excellence, but the Glants and Cubs will be in there trying until the umpires are assigned for the World's Series of 1928.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said:

"One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

LAD RESCUES BABE PERILED BY EXPLOSION

WALNUT CREEK, April 18.—Little Burton Adams, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Adams, who conduct the Victory service station at the Hookston junction, proved himself a hero last night in saving his baby sister, Clydine Marie, 3, and attempting to rescue his grandmother, Mrs. A. Peiffer from burning when the family home was threatened with destruction by fire following the explosion of a gasoline stove.

Adams and his wife were away from home, leaving Mrs. Peiffer, Mrs. Adams' mother, Burton and his sister, Clydine Marie in the house.

Mrs. Peiffer was cooking over a gasoline stove, which suddenly exploded, showering the room with flames. Her clothing afire, Mrs. Peiffer ran screaming into the yard. Burton grabbed the hand of his sister and throwing himself on the floor beneath the flames, which peculiarly flared upward from a height of about three feet, crawled out of the house, dragging the baby to safety.

The small house was by that time filled with flames, but Burton dashed inside to draw water with which to extinguish the fire in his grandmother's clothes.

The gasoline blast, which blew a large hole through one wall and completely wrecked the interior of three rooms, also cut off the electric current which pumps water from a well and the water taps were dry.

H. A. McCarthy, a neighbor, attracted by the blast, ran to the Adams home and crawling in to the house under the flames, seized a fire extinguisher and quelled the flames. Little Burton was painfully scorched and burned about the face but his little sister was unhurt. Mrs. Peiffer was taken to Walnut Creek for treatment for severe burns. The damage is estimated at about $1200.

LEGION BACKS FOREST WEEK

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—

"American Forest Week is the time when we give special attention to our great heritage of forests, rivers and mines," State Commander Phil Dodson of the California American Legion declares in an order to each of the three hundred odd posts of the world war veterans' organizations in this state to join in the observance of Forest Week, April 22 to 28.

American Legion posts will devote themselves to tree planting movement started by State Commander Dodson in order to have 50,000 new trees planted in this state during the present year. In cooperation with the local civic organizations, the Legion posts will "give all possible assistance to schools, juvenile groups and civic groups by holding contests for tree planting and for conservation activities" according to Dodson.

John R. White, superintendent of the Sequoia National Park, is the chairman of the American Legion's conservation commission which has charge of the activities of the various posts during the Forest Week.

Burns Will Cause Woman's Death

PORTLAND, Ore., April 18.—The hope is held for Mrs. L. W. Wood, 75, who suffered burns in her home here today.

Mrs. Wood's clothing caught fire, it is believed while she was removing a burning box of papers from her kitchen, which had taken fire when she threw a match into the box after lighting her gas range.

The Core

civic standard, sign the petitions when they are presented to you. The recent attempt to pull off a bull fight at San Pablo, was frustrated by the humane officer. People of the country are against such exhibitions, and they do not want the class, that follows them, to come to this country.

The warning to campers and travelers by Dr. Dickie of the state board of health about drinking water is very timely. Running water does not purify itself, and if you want to avoid typhoid either carry a supply along with you, or if taken from a stream, boil it before using.

The drive for funds for the Salvation Army is on this week. The quota for Richmond is a trifling over $100, and there should be but little trouble in raising this amount. This organization does a work, and covers a field, that is peculiar to itself. Its place cannot be taken, and the public should see that its work should be carried on. You can aid in this work by subscribing to the maintenance fund.

Soldier Rows Amuse Slaves

BELGRADE, April 18.—More military uniforms are to be seen in Belgrade today than in any other European capital. Even the baby "crown Prince" is sometimes seen in uniform. Soldiers in flat caps, long caps, and feathered caps, with red, fawn and grey uniforms, promenade the streets or sit in the cafes.

The Jugo-Slav army consists of many corps and diverse races, and this nation of fighters is happiest when in uniform. The friction between highly placed military officers provides the main topic of conversation in the cafes and clubs.

BIRGER MOUNTS GALLOWS TODAY

BENTON (Ill.), April 18.—The gallows trap will crash in the jail yard here tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, sending Charlie Birger to his death for the murder of Joe Adams, Mayor of West City.

Birger is resigned, in his fashion, but he hates to die. It will be, though, a rather dramatic ending to a rather colorful career.

Birger, a Jew from New York's East Side, came to "Little Egypt" during the reign of terror, six or seven years ago.

Then came prohibition. He engaged in the rum-running business. But he was not alone. The Sheldon brothers also entered the gang racket.

There was warfare, as bitter as any ever engaged in by rival gangsters.

Then the Sheldons were sent to Leavenworth penitentiary, for complicity in a mail robbery. Birger was jailed.

But he had forgotten the time he had ordered his henchmen to kill Joe Adams, a member of the Sheldon gang.

A new sheriff was elected. He was fearless. Birger was tried and convicted on the testimony of the two men who did the killing.

He was to have hanged last Friday, but his attorneys gained a week on an insanity plea. This was lost yesterday when a jury found him "not to be an insane person."

Missouri Natives Will Hold Picnic

Local members of the Missouri club are planning to attend the picnic to be held in Mosswood park, Oakland, next Sunday. Missourians from throughout Northern California and their friends are invited to the affair and the entertainment will include personal appearances of a number of motion picture stars, including Wallace Beery, Charles Murray, Sally Rand and Dorothy Dwan. There will be an "old fiddlers" contest with prizes awarded.

Three Men Held On Abduction Charge

DENVER, April 18.—Mrs. L. Drummond, 18, of Topeka, Kan., was being sheltered by police here today awaiting the arrival of her husband, William Drummond, and Kansas officials.

Mrs. Drummond, according to police, was abducted by three men, who held her captive in a local hotel for a week. The men, Thomas C. Worth, 26 Courtland Turley, 29; and Henry F. Williamson, 41 were arrested. Mrs. Drummond is the mother of an 11-months-old son.

business, were about to go to Bethel Island to investigate further the suspected Hochkiss barn still when Clyde Laird, chief of the prohibition squad, happened by. The three went on to Bethel and as they approached the suspected moonshine plant, the three officers, noting the approach of the officers, attempted to escape over the peat lands. When they failed to halt, Joseph fired nine shots in the air which started Sawyer and Darrey to reaching for the sky.

Santuri, however, continued in flight with Joseph in pursuit for a mile or more along the levee. Santuri disappeared over a slight rise but was found by Joseph hiding in a clump of tule grass and when he put up a fight was shoved into the river by the officer, who then rescued his prisoner.

Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoey, Joseph Laird and Lancaster went to Bethel island to superintend the dismantling of the alcohol plant which stands 25 feet high, with three tall funnels, the electric power plant, the 200 gallons of alcohol, and the four 5,000 gallon vats with their contents of corn syrup.

All three of the men arrested deny they were operating the plant but Sawyer, according to the authorities, admitted to being the employer of both Santuri and Darrey.

Pantages Loop Opens War On Hays Forces

KANSAS CITY (Mo.), April 18.—Kansas City may become the scene of a bitter motion picture war next week when the Pantages theatre defies the Will Hays organization by putting a Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle picture on its screen.

The comedian will appear in person at the theatre next week and Louis Charnisky, manager of the theatre, says he will revive a film made by Arbuckle for the Keystone company.

The Hays ban on Arbuckle pictures has been in effect since the comedian's trial in connection with the death of an extra girl several years ago. No company owning Arbuckle pictures has dared make use of them and no theatre has offered to purchase them. Other companies have films that will be affected if the local Pantages house forces a test case on the authority of the Hays organization.

"I believe," Mr. Charnisky said today, "that the Hays organization has lost credit in the motion picture industry."
